This is a production-heavy role focused on assembling creative units using our internal design tool. The right candidate is comfortable working within defined templates and processes, with limited need for original design work.

You will help turn pre-supplied assets (copy, logos, banners, product images) from pharmaceutical clients into high-quality ad units that meet internal and external specifications. The work is fast-paced, process-driven, and crucial to ensuring timely delivery of campaigns.

What You'll Do:

- Assemble digital ad units using our proprietary internal tool
- Receive, review, and prepare customer-supplied content (logos, images, text)
- Adjust and export assets (resizing, cropping, simple clean-up) as needed using tools such as Figma or Adobe Creative Suite
- Collaborate closely with the Ops Team to meet turnaround times and quality expectations
- Ensure consistency with brand guidelines and compliance requirements
- Perform QA and revisions on layouts based on internal or customer feedback

Who You Are:

- Detail-oriented and highly organized, you thrive in structured workflows and repetitive production tasks
- Comfortable working independently and remotely, with excellent communication skills
- Have a basic understanding of visual design principles and file formats (e.g., PNG, JPG, SVG, etc.)
- Able to perform light design tasks in Figma or Adobe tools (e.g., Photoshop, Illustrator or Adobe Experience)

- Previous experience in production design, marketing operations, or digital ad creation is a plus
- Familiarity with working in or for regulated industries (e.g., pharma) is a bonus
